Local Stations Check 210 Cars In Seven Days

During the past week Canyon's five official inspection stations show a total of 219 cars inspected. Some of the inspection station personnel said that people were bringing in motor vehicles in greater numbers now than they were a few weeks ago. At least one other inspection reported the flow of vehicles as coming in more slowly while other stations said that there was little difference in the number coming in.

The week's total up to noon Tuesday at each station was: Stevenson Pontiac Company, 44; Imperial Chevrolet Co., 25; Randall Motor Co., 40; McAtee-Warwick Garage, 35; and West-Texas Motor Company, 75.

Imperial Chevrolet and McAtee-Warwick Garage have only been doing inspections for the past two weeks. The two firms had been approved since July but only received their stickers and credentials this month.

Open or Close On Labor Day Is the Question

According to a poll taken by the Chamber of Commerce early this spring the majority of local business houses will be closed on Labor Day. Glenn Waggoner, manager of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce, took out the file on these businesses. The poll was made before Waggoner came from Spearman to accept the position.

The file shows a total of 58 business establishments were approached about remaining open or closing on such holidays as Labor Day. There were 28 business houses that stated a preference to be closed on such holidays. Nineteen of the business men said that they preferred to remain open while 11 of them remained neutral.

If these 11 business houses want to go along with the majority it will definitely tip the scales in the direction of keeping the businesses closed on Labor Day. In the event that the eleven want to remain open it will give those people a two point margin over the businesses preferring to close up.

No definite word has been received from the individual business men. The question as to whether or not they will remain open or close up on this date is solely up to them.

Motor Bikes and Motor Scooters Need Inspecting

The safety inspection law did not stop with the inspection of cars, trucks and motorcycles. The law also includes motor bikes and motor scooters, which are generally defined as motorcycles.

According to the instruction manual for motor vehicle inspection stations all vehicles requiring license also requires the inspection.

The definition says: "Every device capable of transporting persons or property and which is self-propelled (except those operated on rails) must be registered and have license plates as provided by law."

Motor scooters and motor bikes are classified as motorcycles and must be inspected. They must be equipped with adequate brakes, lights, horns, mufflers and reflectors as required by law. Those items are also to be inspected according to the instructions of the manual. The resulting inspection sticker may be placed on any conspicuous place on the vehicle.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss membership problems which are common to the four counties represented. Each representative discussed the membership problem in his individual locality.

There were approximately 25 persons at the meeting. Gus Dietz was host for the meeting of the farm bureau representatives. The foremost task of the meeting was to study methods of getting individual members of the Farm Bureau Federation to participate in the building of farm bureau policies.

Preparation for School Opening Now in Progress

The Canyon Independent School District makes final preparation this week to end the summer vacation and start another school year. On Thursday, the 28th, the entire faculty will meet at 8 o'clock in the morning in the high school cefeteria. On that same day the high school juniors will be registered between the hours of 1 and 4:30 in the afternoon.

Elementary and junior high students register from 9 to 12 o'clock Friday morning and the sophomores and freshmen register between 1 and 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon. Superintendent Gibson announced that there would be no school Monday as that is Labor Day. Tuesday, Sept. 2, will be the first regular day of school.

Registering of the seniors began Friday, August 22. Registration of these students will be complete on Thursday, August 28, Gibson said. He said the seniors were registered early to give more time to various other matters which required the attention of the faculty.

Gibson said that birth certificates were required of all children entering the first grade. Immunization certificates are also required of all first grade pupils and of all pupils new to the system. This also includes those who for some reason or other may not have these certificates recorded. The immunization certificates are mainly for smallpox and diphtheria.

All new pupils in Canyon Grade School will enroll Friday at West Texas Elementary School and Canyon Elementary School. These pupils will enroll in the gymnasium. All regularly promoted children are to report to assigned rooms.

The first regular day of classes will be Tuesday, September 2. On this day the busses will start their regular run and the cafeterias will be open. All those wishing to eat there should get their tickets. The prices are the same as last year, Gibson said. They are 25 cents for elementary students and 30 cents for 7th and 8th graders and high school students.

Mlinar Goes to Amarillo; Hull Is New Manager

TRUETT G. HULL, JR.

Cliff Mlinar will be replaced as manager of the Southwestern Public Service Company here on Sept. 1 by Truett G. Hull, Jr. This change was announced last week by T. W. Gilstrap, Amarillo division manager. Mlinar has been promoted to division utilization manager and will work out of the Amarillo headquarters of this division.

Mr. Hull has been division personnel and safety supervisor since joining the Southwestern Public Service Company in March of 1949. He is a graduate of the University of Texas. He is married and they are the parents of two small sons: Andrew, 2, and Christopher, 4 months.

The new district manager for Canyon has been an outstanding civic worker in Amarillo. Just last month the Amarillo Junior Chamber of Commerce named him their "Man of the Month" for his successful chairmanship of the Soap Box Derby. He is president of the Family Service organization of Amarillo; vice-president of the Community Council; chairman of the Cub Leadership Training program of the Boy Scouts, and a member of the Llano Estacado Council; a director of the USO, and a member of the advisory committee of the Potter County Court of Domestic Relations.

Cliff Mlinar has been district manager here since November of 1949. He replaced Gordon Lyons who was transferred to Amarillo as division superintendent. Mr. Lyons' further promotion to district manager at Pampa, one of the largest Southwestern Public Service Company districts, was also announced recently by Mr. Gilstrap.

Prior to coming to Canyon, Cliff Mlinar had been in the engineering and utilization departments at the division offices in Amarillo. His earlier experiences in building the groundwork of the present utilization organization will serve him well as he returns to Amarillo to take over the management of the expanded department.

A member of the Rotary Club and vice-president of the Chamber of Commerce, Cliff has taken an active part in community affairs since arriving in Canyon.

Mr. Gilstrap also announced that Joe Gidden, a long-time Canyon resident and a member of the line crew here, has been promoted to manager at Lefors and will assume his new duties on September 1.

Large Vote Cast in the Second Primary--Johnston New Sheriff

Randall county citizens showed more interest in the election Saturday than was displayed in most of the counties of Texas. Nearly 2900 ballots were cast, as compared with only 1400 in all of Potter county.

As a result of the election, Randall county will have a new Sheriff on January 1, 1953. L. S. Johnston defeated Sheriff M. E. Cantrell by a majority of 1658 to 1228. Johnston carried all but two boxes in the county, and tied in these two.

Mr. Cantrell has been Sheriff for 14 years and served as deputy for four years previously to that time.

"I have no regret for the result of the election," stated Mr. Cantrell Saturday night. "I am not mad at a single voter of Randall county. I wish to congratulate Mr. Johnston and assure him that I shall do everything in my power to assist in enforcing the laws in Randall county," stated Cantrell.

Judge Ernest Northcutt was elected to the Court of Civil Appeals over Judge Joe S. Moss of Post; and Judge Culver of Fort Worth seems to have won Place No. 1 on the Supreme Court by defeating Judge Bell in a close contest.

Many Vehicles To Be Inspected Before Deadline

Recently cars were checked for inspection stickers at the traffic light on Fourth Avenue and the highway. An official from Sheriff M. E. Cantrell's department made the check between 2:55 and 3:05 o'clock in the afternoon. During the ten minute check it was reported that 35 cars passed that did not have inspection stickers. There were 36 cars counted that did have stickers. Only Texas cars were counted.

A check of the five local inspection stations showed a total of 1,730 vehicles inspected by noon Friday. This leaves approximately 970 vehicles in the immediate vicinity to be inspected before the deadline of September 6. Those not inspected should not be driven after this date.

Dub Welborn of the State Motor Vehicle Department was in town Friday morning making a survey of all the inspections. A breakdown of the figures shows that Randall Motor Company is leading the field in inspections. Since beginning inspections Randall Motor Company has checked 669 vehicles by noon Friday. Stevenson Pontiac Company was second with 650 and the West Texas Motor Company was third with 337 inspections.

The McAtee-Warwick Garage had inspected a total of 38 vehicles and Imperial Chevrolet Company 36. These two companies only recently received their official stickers and credentials to do the inspections.

At present Welborn has 10½ counties in this vicinity in which he must keep up with inspections. Up until about two weeks ago he was working 20 counties. Then another man was brought into the department who took half of the load off Welborn. Although he lives and works out of Amarillo, Welborn makes regular checks of all inspection stations in his territory. He has been working with the State Highway Department for approximately two years. Last spring he transferred to his present job from the Drivers License Department.

Les Key, according to Bill Sternenberg, was going to try to get into an instructor course. This would enable him to help his department considerably with his knowledge of modern fire fighting equipment.

Two Deaths, One Injury Result of Car-Truck Crash

A highway accident about 14 miles west of Canyon on Highway 60 resulted in two deaths Saturday night. The two victims were Mrs. Myrtle Inez Horn and her daughter, Lana Kay Horn.

The 35-year-old mother was pronounced dead upon arrival of ambulances. Lana Kay, 5, died at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning. Mr. Horn suffered a broken collar bone in the wreck.

The Horn family was returning from Dimmitt when the accident happened. It was about 9 o'clock when the Horn sedan crashed into the rear of a dump truck which was reported parked on the highway. Officers reported the truck as one belonging to Jessie Barrett of Amarillo. The truck had been reported as stolen earlier Saturday night.

After the mishap Mr. Horn remained conscious. He was thrown from the car when it struck the truck. He rescued Lana Kay and hailed a passing motorist who brought her to the hospital. Mr. Horn went back and removed his wife from the wreckage. She was pronounced dead upon arrival of ambulances both from Hereford and Canyon.

Hereford Boys Fined $75 on Assault Charge

Three Hereford boys were fined $75 each and court costs in County Court Monday morning on an assault charge which occurred in South Amarillo. The boy who was assaulted was a student at West Texas State College last term. According to his story of the incident, he stopped at a cafe in South Amarillo to eat breakfast.

As he started into the cafe there were three boys near the front entrance. One of the boys mentioned that the fellow who just arrived looked like a football player. His two friends decided that they would tackle the new arrival and see how good he was at football. According to the report they did more than just tackle him. They beat him until one eye was completely closed and his entire face was bruised, authorities said.

As the trio of boys and their two girl friends left the scene the license number of their car was taken. When authorities checked up on whom the car belonged to they found it to be a Hereford man. When questioned the man said his sons had the car and were not at home.

They were picked up later and brought to Canyon to face the charge in County Court. Judge Burney Slack fined each boy $75 and court cost for the offense.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

Politics Are Slow in Middle West, States Canyon Pastor

Rev. Win Matsler returned the other day from a vacation-business trip to the middle west. Asked about the political thought of that section his reply was that you heard more politics in Texas than you hear in the middle west.

Voters in that normally strong Republican stronghold look with suspicion upon both candidates of the two strong major parties. The voters up that way are strong for Taft and resent the process by which Eisenhower was nominated. Whether it is true or not, Eisenhower is looked upon as the tool and candidate of Wall Street.

On the other hand, Governor Stevenson is looked upon as a big twig of the Truman branch, and will be governed by whatever Truman tells him to do.

As for corruption, Mr. Matsler is of the opinion that this is out of the picture. That few people have no sympathy with the corruption in government, but they see little chance for improvement regardless of who may be in the White House.

There is a suspicion in that section that the farmers will get whipped by either candidate, and therefore there is no enthusiasm for either candidate.

A week previously we had heard the sermon of a prominent preacher in Amarillo. He condemned corruption in government as the most distressing thing which has ever occurred in Washington. He stressed the fact that America had become ashamed of its leaders and its government because of corruption which had been disclosed in governmental circles. The sermon certainly did coincide with our views upon the subject.

After church we had lunch with a salesman who travels throughout the Southwest. This man took exception to our views and those of the preacher.

"The voters are thinking about the amount of money which they are making today in comparison to the small amount they were able to make during the last Republican administration, which happens to be that of Hoover. They are lining up the two administrations, he declared, and are in favor of continuing the lush times of today rather than run the risk of going back to the Hoover bread lines," stated this man.

It set us to wondering.

Will the people of America trade their present financial standing for the uncertainty of a change in the national administration?

Are we satisfied to see the grafters continue to steal the tax money which is being taken from our pockets for the purpose of supporting the government?

Just where are we going to draw the line and say that regardless of the future, that we demand that our government shall practice economy; efficiency; and that the grafters and corruptionists be kicked out of high places in Washington?

It seems to us that our government is at the cross roads. We can either vote for honesty in government, or vote for dishonesty.

One thing seems certain to us: Both Eisenhower and Stevenson are honest and honorable men who want to do the right thing by their government. After the election in November all of us may rest assured that there will be little or no more grafting upon the taxpayers of this nation under the nose of the President, or with his approval.

We shall see.

By Another Name, But the Same Old Commie Bunch Will Rule

The commies over in Russia are going to have a shake up. That is, there will be a meeting of the so-called congress, the first in 13 years.

We do hope that none of the high 12 men will bite their tongues off as they declare to the world that there is a new order of things in Russia, and that it will be a real Democratic nation in the future.

While we have never professed to understand the Russian mind, it struck us very forcefully that this announcement came as a face saving affair for a lot of Reds who seem to have extended their lines of operation farther than was good for them.

Their tongues were no doubt in their cheek when the announcement was made.

At any rate, Russia was forced into making some kind of a change in governmental regulations because of the fact that the Reds in Korea are being blistered where it hurts.

After all, we just wonder if Washington has now at long last decided that we cannot do business with Moscow, and has decided to let our men do some real fighting rather than be mere clay pigeons for the Reds to shoot at.

MacArthur's Name Is Proposed For Presidency—At a Price

We see that MacArthur followers in Texas will try to put his name on the November ballot. We are not quite sure what this deal will cost the taxpayers of Texas, should it go through, but let it be remembered that YOU the taxpayers will foot the bill for several thousand pounds of wasted paper; and will pay for the services of several thousand election clerks as they handle the election.

The idea back of the idea is to defeat Eisenhower in Texas. Rather than put up the name of Taft, these so-called followers of the dead duck general will back MacArthur in a vain attempt to woo the voters.

While we have all of the respect in the world for MacArthur as a military genius, the flop that he made at Chicago and the fact that he continues to draw $19,000 per year, with three high ranking officers as aides are a little too much.

If MacArthur thinks that America cannot run without his services in the White House, let him resign and get out on his own.

Figures show that Americans are buying more insurance today than ever before, which fact reflects a higher living and educational standard.

Judging from the performance of some of the current singing rages, we have concluded there isn't much to this business of groaning after all.

The best bank is the one which favors no one and which seeks to provide money to all qualified borrowers at fair interest rates.

Have you read anything in the Bible lately?

Political Drouth? Is it Real Or Another Washington Stunt?

Governor Shivers is right. He is not going to appeal to Washington for drouth aid unless there is real and genuine need for such aid, and a demand comes from the people.

It reminds us of the situation in Florida. You understand that the Democratic chances in Florida are a little shaky, according to predictions. Florida was set up by the Washington bureaucrats as a drouth area, and government aid was rushed to Florida in spite of the fact that real farmers and real producers had not asked for aid. At the very time federal aid was being rushed from Washington, a general rain was falling over Florida, and according to the weather reports rainfall is normal in Florida this year.

Political? Oh, no, you would never accuse President Truman of wasting federal funds for political purposes!

For three long years there has been a severe drouth in certain areas of Texas. Crops have been short, and there has been dire need of some kind of aid for the farmers. But let it be remembered that if Uncle Sam steps in and sends help to Texas he will send along a young army of Harry's boys to see to it that the money buys a flock of votes.

Yes, sir, it looks as if Eisenhower is stronger in Texas than we first estimated. It looks like Washington was going to turn a flow of money in this direction.

One good general rain with cooler weather would solve the situation, but so far these have not come.

Land Empire Bought, Controlled By Uncle Sam in All States

We see that Uncle Sam owns 24% of all land in America! That is a sizable slice of real estate for any group to own or control and please remember that your local government collects no taxes on this land.

In Texas Uncle Sam owns only 1.33% of the land; but in Nevada the government owns 84.71% of the land of the state.

There is a total of 1,905,361,920 acres of land in the nation; with Uncle Sam owning 455,146,726 acres.

Iowa is at the bottom of the list with only ,29% of its land owned by the nation. However, there are only five states in the union in which Uncle Sam owns less than 1% of the land.

Of course this land ownership by the government is a result of the local people running to Washington whenever there is some project which they wish to put over. When Uncle Sam steps into any project, let it be remembered that in such an instance private or state ownership goes out of the window.

Battle With Knives Is a Poor Way to Settle Union Disputes

We see that two unions have staged a pitch battle in Chicago over a jurisdictional dispute in which knives were used by fellow workers to cut each other up.

The knife wielders are from the CIO and AFL unions, both of which are determined to collect the dues of the men involved in the dispute.

But why should we worry about men who have no more sense than to butcher each other in jurisdictional disputes; or men who are willing to strike in order to gain a few pennies' more pay thereby wasting time which they cannot replace by months of toil?

Over in Russia, which is the ideal of too many Americans, there are no trade unions; everyone works for the state, and at starvation wages over which they would be foolish to strike.

The Future: Well, We Know Little but Like to Talk Lot

We read a most impressive letter the other day!

We were offered the opportunity of a lifetime to see when the next depression would hit; who will be elected president in November; and a lot of other silly predictions that some writers will dish out. All for the price of a magazine!

Frankly we have been peeking around the corner and wondering about these things ourselves. We are as ignorant as the next fellow, but we are certainly not ignorant enough to make such wild predictions which will affect the lives of so many people in so many ways.

Roman Numerals Are Out of Picture in Newspaper Offices

Ever so often we see where some newspaper insists in using the Roman numerals in giving their volume number.

The other day we were called upon to give the correct Roman numeral for a comparatively small number. For the life of us, we failed; we simply could not remember this numeral.

After all, we are of the opinion that we are just as well off. Why should we bother our heads over such foolishness as Roman numerals?

We are barely able to keep up with this good old American system of numbering, regardless of its origin.

Who's Crazy In Tax Spending?

It is reported from Washington that because Congress cut $31 billion dollars off the medical program of Veterans Administration that 2,000 employes have been fired, and several thousand beds were discontinued.

On top of this the VA still continues to build more hospitals, largely in places where they are not needed.

Now who is wasting YOUR TAX MONEY?

Lions Hear About Mammoth Bones Recently Found

Jack T. Hughes, instructor of geology at West Texas State College and curator of paleontology at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum, was guest speaker at the Lions Club Wednesday. Hughes spoke on fossils which were recently found near Stinnett.

Hughes said the people around Stinnett were extremely nice to him and the men who worked with him. They brought out food, cold drinks and various delicacies such as watermelon while the digging was going on. In fact, they brought out so much food that some of the food which was bought by the museum had to be returned. The geology instructor said he was still wondering just how he would explain this excess amount of food to his superiors.

This spot over near Stinnett was heard about several months ago, Hughes said. They were not able to investigate immediately because of a transportation problem in the department. The spot in which the bones were found is a spring draw flowing into the valley of Big Creek.

Workers got over there to dig only after erosion showed up some of the huge mammoth teeth, Hughes explained. He went on to explain that the place had clay deposits in it which represents a quicksand bog of the past. The animals became trapped and kicked about in an attempt to free themselves. This broke up the bones of those animals which had been trapped earlier.

Digging was a close, tedious and tiresome job, Hughes said. He explained how carefully the bones had to be removed and also in transporting. Hughes said he and the boys had quite a bit of fun out of the job. He said that when they stopped at a service station one of the attendants invariably looked at their odd equipment and asked what they were doing. The questioner was always surprised when one of the boys answered, "We're hunting elephants."

Before the flabbergasted fellow could get his mouth closed for another question, one of the troupe would usually speak up with, "Oh, we're looking for them with an ice pick." This only added to the confusion., Hughes added. They were talking of finding elephant bones and fossils but they usually left this until the very end in order to make the joke better.

Hughes invited everyone to come down to the museum and see the bones that are on display there. Not all of the find at Stinnett was on display the day he spoke. He said other bones would be added to the bone display later.

The Lions also entertained two guests. They were B. Z. Woodward, guest of Bill Sternenberg, and Hosea Foster, guest of Clark Jarnagin.

I was the oldest grandchild on my mother's side of the family and I bore myself with the importance and dignity that such an honor merited. But my father's sister had a son, my cousin Otto, who was older than I—so, on that side of the family, I was just another grandchild.

Needless to say, I had little use for Cousin Otto and resented his air of superiority which of course was no different from my own attitude toward my younger cousins on the other side of the family, but that consideration had not occurred to me.

My sentiment toward Otto was not helped by an incident I am now going to relate. My parents, my small sister and I were visiting my aunt, Otto's mother, and he and I had gone to the store and were returning to the house.

Down the street toward us came a fine carriage, with a driver in livery and a beautiful lady as a passenger. However my interest (you will recall I was very young) was centered on the horses. They were a pair of blacks and they were moving at a good speed, their manes tossing and their hooves beating a rhythm upon the firm dirt road.

We had been walking alongside the road but Otto, always cautious, scurried far to one side and told me to do likewise. I was in no danger; there was margin for the team to pass. I did not propose to take orders from Otto; furthermore, I would show him I had courage. So I continued walking. Then Otto grabbed me and pulled me three or four feet to one side.

When we got home, Otto told about the incident and everyone said, "Boyce is obstinate and Otto is a hero; he saved his cousin's life." And his attitude was more superior and more insufferable than ever.

I then concluded that there was no justice in life—a conclusion which has been confirmed by other events many times since.

Bombay, India. — A bus, loaded with Hindu worshippers, was en route to a Hindu festival, in which snakes play a part. Although the snakes had had their poison apparatus removed, the driver panicked, lost control of the bus and it fell into a chasm. Twenty-four of the passengers were killed.

Dear Priscilla

Just have a second to answer your last, appreciated letter.

There are people who say "I never wear a hat," and the young girls as Nancy do enjoy letting their curls fly, and they must do this, but there are times when she will be just as beautiful and glamourous with part of her curls showing at the right places, with the right frame for her face. Mother says tell her to bring all the old hats you think you might as well throw away, that is the good material ones, she can make them over, and to suit Nancy's own profile, by the way, one of the new hats is called the profile hat. Really Pris, Mother is so hipped on the right hat for the right person, like that song "To each his own," that I tell her she will beggar us yet. And I tell her I know she does not listen to what the preacher says in church, for she is so busy looking at the hats.

Well, Dear, this letter seems to be nothing but hats, hats, hats, meant to tell you about the Designers Style show to which I trundled to, at Santa Fe, and am leaving now for the school of modeling, with charm, poise, posture, and all that included, why am I doing it? It's like this, it all blends into the whole picture of what I am most interested in, a beautiful young girl or an older distinctive woman needs expert knowledge along with the buying and selecting of clothes, of make-up, poise, posture, now rushing, as a friend of mine down South would say "Do you get the pitcher?"

Love and kisses,

P. L. H. from P. D. D. S.

P. S. Have in those Paris glitter sweaters. No, they are not cheap. But lovely.

Game Department Active in Work of Conservation Game

Paul V. Jones, Jr., representative of the Texas Game Department, spoke at the Rotary Club Tuesday. His department is the second largest in the state, exceeded only by the Highway Department. However, not one penny is raised for the department by taxation. The hunters and fishermen of the state furnish the money.

There are 12 species of animals and fowls which the department is seeking to conserve in Texas. Ten of these are found in the Panhandle.

Many head of antelope and deer have been brought to the Panhandle and placed in spots of shelter.

The dove is migratory and cannot be controlled. Because of the drouth this year which is killing the customary shelters, game is being hard hit.

The speaker predicted that quail would be very scarce this fall because of the drouth. However, the small number of quail is to be found every ten years.

Irrigation has not helped game. Deaf Smith County, with the largest number of irrigation wells, has the smallest amount of game in the Panhandle.

There are 225 varieties of birds in the Panhandle. Bob White Quail and Blue Quail, entirely different, were discussed at length by the speaker.

Dr. J. A. Hill called attention to the loss of trees and shrubs in Dreamland Cemetery and urged that something be done to save this growth.

A resolution of respect for the late Harris M. Cook was adopted.

Visitors were: Marion Bruce, Chas. Folks, Truett Hull, Jr., Arnold Atteburg, Chas. Young, Wood Jackson, Will McLear, all of Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Carter and children attended a family reunion in Hereford Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ricketts.

THANKS!

I wish to thank the people of Randall County for their support throughout the years while I have served them as Sheriff and Deputy.

I am happy to report to you that I have no ill feelings toward any citizen of Randall County for my defeat of last Saturday. At the same time I wish to congratulate the winner of this political race and assure Mr. L. S. Johnston that I shall stand ready to uphold his hands in law enforcement in Randall county.

I am glad of the type of citizens who have stayed with me throughout the years, and assisted me in my efforts to make Randall County the cleanest and best place in which to live.

Thanks again, and good wishes to one and all.

Cattlemen Have Problem Which Alarms Governor

As the drouth continued with burning heat waves last week many farmers and ranchers wondered what they could do to meet the situation. Little or no rain had resulted in a very small amount of native grass. In most instances this bit of pasture land had been grazed while it was growing and by the time the night rains ended in July there was no grass in the pastures.

At present the cattlemen are in a squeeze play that is growing tighter every minute. The prices of feed are so high that the cattlemen cannot profitably feed his herd until spring brings grass or next year's feed crop is made. Then on the other hand the prices of cattle are dropping and have dropped to such a low that the cattlemen will have to take a loss if he sells.

Governor Shivers was making an investigation last week to determine whether or not the Texas cattlemen need emergency aid. His plan included questioning of every county agent in the state to determine whether or not that specific area was in need of emergency aid. He had not contacted Randall County Agent John Brazzil by Friday but that office was expecting his call or telegram at any time.

Miss Lawson Is Honored With Series of Parties

Thursday morning, August 21, at 10 o'clock Mrs. Walter Graham entertained with a coffee in her beautiful ranch home to honor Miss Mildred Lawson of Dyersburg, Tenn., who is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. P. Cornette, and family.

Mrs. Graham was assisted in entertaining by her daughters, Mrs. Nolon Henson, Misses Mabel, Bettie and Billie Graham.

Mrs. Cornette and Mrs. Graham presented the honoree to each guest.

Yellow and white mums with gorgeous pink gladioli and dahlias from the home flower garden of Mrs. Tom Gooch were arranged in pleasing groupings throughout the entertainment rooms.

Pink asters flanked by pink tapers centered the cut work linen covered table. Silver and china appointments were presided over by Miss Bettie Graham.

Approximately 40 guests were served half peached filled with raspberry and crabapple jelly, purple grapes, tiny buttered biscuits and sliced ham, tea and coffee.

On Saturday evening Mrs. James L. Russell entertained to honor Miss Lawson with a dessert party. Mrs. Ples Harper gave a coffee on Monday morning to give other friends of the Cornettes the opportunity of meeting Miss Lawson. Then in the evening Mrs. Tom B. Gooch gave a dessert party at her country home to honor the visitor.

Tuesday at noon Mrs. R. A. Neblett continues the honors with a luncheon at the Amarillo Club. Other parties are planned for the week among which is a coffee to be given by Miss Agnes Charlton Thursday morning.

Adlai Stevenson, Democratic nominee for the Presidency, has a commitment from Mr. Truman that the President will campaign only at the invitation of Mr. Stevenson and in harmony with overall campaign plans, not as a lone operator.

The Government's No. 1 forecaster of political trends, one who long has made appraisals for White House use, is reporting that the 12-year decline in Democratic voting strength is ended and that a rising vote in November will elect Stevenson.

CENTRAL H. D. MEETING IS POSTPONED

The meeting of the Central Home Demonstration Club has been postponed because of the death of the brother of Mrs. Rae Walters. This meeting will be held at a later date.

The Stevenson headquarters is aware that an undertone of criticism is heard among Democrats, as well as Republicans, that the Democratic nominee may be a little too glib in his statements. Governor Stevenson finds that wisecracks come easily, but there is some question about how well they will wear with voters.

President Truman is prepared to forgo an urge to call Congress back in special session. The President has found that Stevenson and all Democratic leaders in Congress are opposed to a special session on the ground that political hazards are greater than any probable gains.

Senator Robert Taft is telling friends that he lost the presidential nomination as a result of misrepresentations by his political enemies, not because he had alienated the Eastern wing of the party by his attitude on foreign policy. The Ohio Senator intends to campaign for Eisenhower.

Robert Lovett, Secretary of Defense, is determined to step out of his highly important job no matter who wins the Presidency in November. If Stevenson is elected, Senator Richard Russell of Georgia, chairman of the Senate Armed Forces Committee, is likely to be offered that Cabinet post.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Harp flew to Chicago to attend the 61st annual convention for the Photographers Association of America. They planned to be there from the time the convention opened on Monday morning through the closing day on Friday. This year the convention is being held in the Conrad-Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

The convention has been described as the largest organization of professional photographers as well as the oldest in America. Material on the convention said that it was planned to be in tune with the surroundings.

One of the highlights of the convention was the Trade Show of Manufacturers and Distributors of Photographic Supplies and Equipment. A total of 76 dealers were scheduled to take part in this Trade Show.

Ike To Restore Tidelands to State of Texas

Texas-born Dwight D. Eisenhower, "a fighter all his life," will fight, as President of the United States, to restore to Texas her precious tidelands. He will also fight unceasingly and with all his heart to stamp out Socialism and Communism in this country.

This was the message that Texas-born Governor Dan Thornton, of Colorado, brought to the Lone Star State Thursday when officially opened the State Eisenhower Headquarters atop the Continental Life Building in Fort Worth.

Speaking to a large and enthusiastic crowd of "Ike" supporters in Will Rogers Auditorium, the tall and rangy Governor, son of a West Texas sharecropper, charged Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic nominee, of being the personal candidate of President Harry Truman. He said that there can be no hope for a change in Washington when only the faces of the nominees are changed, but the powerful Administration forces remain in control of the Federal Government.

"The Democrats have nothing to fear but fur," Thornton declared. "And I mean mink. Now is our opportunity to throw the rascals out who would destroy America. We need a more decent type of man in the White House than we have now."

Thornton characterized the campaign as: "not a struggle between two political parties, but a struggle between two philosophies. One believes in freedom of the individual and the other that the State is all-powerful."

Appearing with Thornton on the program were Jack Porter, Houston, G. O. P. National Committeeman from Texas, and Ben Guill, Porter's appointee as campaign manager for Eisenhower in Texas.

Famous Boys' Ranchers To Appear at Rodeo

Among the features of the Eighth Annual Boys' Ranch Rodeo to be held in Amarillo over the Labor Day week end will be four Boys' Ranchers who recently made a number of recordings and television appearances in Hollywood with several well-known personalities.

The boys appeared on the recordings with such celebraties as Roy Rogers, King of the Cowboys, Dale Evans, Queen of the West, Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight boxing champ, Monty Hale, movie cowboy, and Chill Wills, actor famous for his voice characterization of Francis the Mule.

The talented boys are David Ash, 13, of Amarillo, comedian and singer; Bud Hiller, 15, of Crutthersville, Mo., the star of the show who plays the guitar and sings western ballads, pianist Eddie Stevens, 14, of McCamey, Tex.; and Bill Price, 17, of Kansas City, Kansas, the Master of Ceremonies.

Besides furnishing entertainment for people in this area all the boys will display their skills in such events as bronc riding, bull riding, calf roping and several special acts including trick roping and riding and all the other features of any professional rodeo.

The young cowhands plan two performances plus a colorful parade to be held in Amarillo on Saturday preceding the rodeo. The opening performance will be on Sunday, August 31, at 2:30 and the second show is scheduled for Monday, September 1, at 8:00 at the Tri-State Fair Rodeo Arena.

Appearing on the program with the boys will be such well-known personalities and organizations as the world-famous Clay County Bit and Spur Riding Club of Kansas City, Bud Lucas and his troupe of Rodeo Acrobats, and the Whippoorwills and Georgia Brown who are featured with Roy Rogers and on the stage, screen, radio and television.

Every cowboy at the Ranch will participate in at least one event and all the boys will compete for prizes and for the title of all around cowboy which will be judged according to points received in the various events.

General Admission tickets, which may be used for either performance, will be on sale at $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children. Reserved seats are priced at $2.25. Tickets will be available by mail, at B. F. Goodrich, Vance Hall Sporting Goods and Henry Blackburn's Sporting Goods stores in Amarillo or at the arena the day of the rodeo.

WRONG LINE

Amy was one of the most popular girls in town, and when she married the church was crowded. After the ceremony, friends rushed to kiss the bride. After about half an hour the breathless girl looking down at one little man, she said, "I don't know you. Why are you kissing me?"

The little man scratched his head.

"I dunno, lady. When I joined this line outside I understood it was for cigarettes!"

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

"When I was a young fellow," grandpa related, "my ambition was to have a gig and a gal."

"Well," said his son, "when I was a young man, I wanted a flivver and a flapper."

"Hey, pop," said the grandson, "how about me having a plane and jane?"

WHY NOT MEDIUM?

Young bride to groceryman: "I would like a pint of oysters, please."

"Large or small, madam?" asked the groceryman.

Faced with an unexpected decision, she thought a moment. "Well," she reasoned, "they're for a man with a size 15 collar."

BASIC AMERICAN

HIS WIFE

She — You say you love me, but would you be willing to die for me?

He—Well, er, no. You see, mine is what they call an undying type of love.

says
LEWIS ENGEL,
Reliable Supply Company, Chicago, Ill.

"My Dodge has proved to be a real saver on gas!"

"We are getting several more miles per gallon with our Dodge 'Job-Rated' truck—and in a small business like mine, economy is important.

"My Dodge has not only proved to be a real saver on gas—but we are real pleased with Dodge dependability. Hauling pipes, fixtures, plumbing tools and other heavy equipment has broken down several trucks for us. But our Dodge has taken heavy-duty use over bumpy roads for a long time now and we haven't had to have a single mechanical repair."

Enjoy over-all economy. Dodge "Job-Rated" trucks are easy on gas and oil, thanks to compression ratios as high as 7.0 to 1. Other cost-cutting advantages include lightweight aluminum-alloy pistons and gas-saving carburetor with economizer valve.

Cut down upkeep. With a Dodge "Job-Rated" truck you get such proved money-saving features as 4-ring pistons with chrome-plated top rings, exhaust valve seat inserts, pre-fitted connecting rod bearings, positive-pressure lubrication, and other features.

Get long life. A Dodge "Job-Rated" truck gives you special alloy steel springs and shot-peened axle shafts. Other dependable Dodge long-life advantages include such features as wear- and heat-resistant valves, oil-bath air cleaner, and floating oil intake.

Ruby Tarbox and James Lair United in Impressive Rites in Methodist Church

In a double ring ceremony read at 7:30 Saturday evening at the First Methodist Church of Canyon, Ruby Maria Tarbox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tarbox of Plainview, was married to James Byron Lair, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Lair, Canyon.

The two repeated the nuptial vows before an altar covered with white satin and banked with baskets of white gladioli and four candelabra.

Ruth Ann Soll, Canyon, presented the musical program. Pam McDonald was soloist; she sang "Because," "Indian Love Call," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The candles were lighted by Joyce Roark, Vega, and Barbara Gaither, Amarillo. They were dressed in yellow lace redingrotes over yellow satin dresses. The flower girl, Andra Lair, of Canyon, niece of the bridegroom, was dressed in a floor length gown of white. The bride's cousin, Danny Tarbox of Perryton, was ring bearer.

Ushers included Tom Lair, Canyon, brother of the groom; Avent Lair, Amarillo, another brother; Bill Thurman, Amarillo; and Don Standley, Canyon.

Brother of the groom, Stanley Lair of Canyon, was the best man. Ruth Tarbox, twin sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids included Martha Thomas, Hereford, Junelle Witt, Rose Mary Tarbox, sister of the bride, and Mary Jo Craig, Plainview.

Given in marriage by her father, W. H. Tarbox, the bride was attractively gowned in a wedding dress of white lace and satin. The Chantilly type bodice was fashioned with a fitted waist and had a high collar. Buttons extended down the long graceful sleeves tapered to points over the hands. At her neck she wore a single strand of pearls. The pleated skirt of satin fell into a chapel length train. Her veil of illusion was caught to a bonnet type tiara of stiff Chantilly lace.

She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

The maid of honor, Ruby Tarbox, was dressed in a ballerina length aqua satin dress over which she wore a matching lace redingote. She wore a pleated headband of lace and satin and also had matching mitts. She carried a nosegay of yellow asters.

Miss Craig and Miss Witt wore aqua satin dresses with matching redingotes, headbands and mitts. Miss Tarbox and Miss Thomas wore pink outfits. They all carried complimentary nosegays of asters.

The bride's mother wore a street length dress of blue crepe with matching blue accessories and a white corsage. The bridegroom's mother had an informal beige crepe dress with accessories of black velvet and a white corsage.

A wedding reception at Fellowship Hall followed the church ceremony. The couple was assisted in receiving the guests by the parents of both and the bridesmaids.

Guests were present from Plainview, Tulia, Groom, Pampa, Lorenzo and Perryton.

For the bride's traveling attire she chose a pink suit with black velvet accessories and a white orchid corsage. She and Mr. Lair are on a honeymoon trip to points in the Southwest. They plan to be at home in Canyon after September 1.

Mrs. Lair is a Plainview High School graduate and attended Texas Tech. Now a senior at West Texas State College in Canyon, she is majoring in elementary education. Mrs. Lair plans to graduate at the end of the fall term. She is a past president of the Delta Zeta Chi sorority.

Mr. Lair is a Canyon High School graduate and served in the Navy. He is now attending West Texas State College as an animal husbandry major. He has farming interests.

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Lair, the bridegroom's parents, feted the couple at a rehearsal dinner Friday evening at the Cowboy Cafe in Canyon.

Members of the wedding party attended.

Just Between You, Me and . . . the Gatepost

(By Lawrence Hunnicutt)

School ended, the drouth continued and the local election issue warmed up as the day of the election drew near last week. It was a wonderful week for those who were getting out of summer school at West Texas State. Farmers and cattlemen were out on a limb that had already broken and they were looking for a soft place to land. The drouth had ruined row crops and prevented native grass from growing.

As far as the younger generation was concerned there was an even darker side to the picture. School was getting ready to lop off their vacation days. Fall seemed really close when Joe A. Gibson, new superintendent of the public school system, came by to give us the detailed plans of the high school registration this week.

James E. Miller, principal of the Canyon High School, was also by for a short chat. It seems only a few weeks ago that we went with Mr. Miller to cover the high school football games. It doesn't seem possible that those games were almost a year ago, but according to the calendar they were.

Anna Lou Samuelson, secretary in the County Agent's and Home Demonstration Agent's office, asked where we dig up the jokes for this column. It was a tough question, as we had never thought about the jokes being old enough to have been dead, buried and require digging up. It was admitted that they were a special brand of corn from a special source. Those of you who believe that they have something in common with limburger should go right out and get a nice new clothespin. They have some beautiful shiny ones at the dime store that may be somewhat becoming to you.

Anyone desiring to know just how easy it is to get to the base of Lighthouse Rock, one of nature's wonders out Palo Duro Canyon way, ask Glenn Waggoner. He has made the trip in person and knows all about the path leading up to the towering formation. You might even ask him about carrying along a lunch and a canteen of water.

Our report from Charlie Donnell last week showed that the new drive-in theater, and by the way the name has already been selected, should be open about the middle of September. They've named the theater the Canyon Drive-In. It's an excellent choice for the very simplicity of the name lends a great deal of grandeur to it. The hold-up is due to materials ordered but not expected to be received until mid-September.

Two eventful happenings took place Friday night. It rained, a little bit, and there was an impressive graduation ceremony for the summer students at West Texas State College. It was not a strange sight to be driving about town and see capped and gowned people climbing into cars about 7 o'clock and start driving toward the college. Those students who were getting their master's degrees admitted that it was a relief to reach their goal after so many months of work.

Don't look now folks but that department's here again. If you need a clothespin now's the time to get it for here are the Chirps of Wisdom.

When a grade school teacher asked her pupils the definition of a flood one bright boy waved his hand enthusiastically. The teacher called upon him and he said, "It is a river too big for its bridges."

One cutie asked another cutie if she ever awoke with a jerk. "Heavens no," answered the cutie, "I'm not married yet."

It takes two kinds of wood to make a match, he would and she would.

When you lend a friend five dollars and never see him again, it was worth it.

The fact that love is blind may be the reason why you see so many spectacles in the park at night.

WORLD TRADE

A survey by the United Nations indicates that world trade in 1951 reached $76,000,000,000, a record total that was 37 per cent higher than the 1950 figure and more than three times that of 1937, the best pre-war year.

NO NEED FOR IMPROVEMENT

The old farmer was dozing in the shade of his front porch, when a high-pressure salesman bustled up the front walk and awakened him with a cheery "Good Afternoon." He had a sample book of a 10-volume set of scientific agriculture he was selling.

The old farmer was at length persuaded to page through the specimen volume.

"Nope," he objected, "ain't got no use for it."

"But you ought to have it," the salesman insisted. "It will teach you to farm twice as good as you do now."

"Nope, son," barked the ancient agriculturist. "I don't farm half as good now as I know how."

Gotta Be Careful

Mandy haled Amos into court because he insisted on keeping the pigs in the living room. "Why, the air ain't fit to breathe," she complained. "Why don't you leave the windows open?" asked the judge. "We can't do that," replied Mandy, "the chickens would fly out."

Talking His Way Out

He stumbled up the stairs at 3 a.m. and into his bedroom.

"Well," came his wife's chilly tones from the dark, "what does the clock say?"

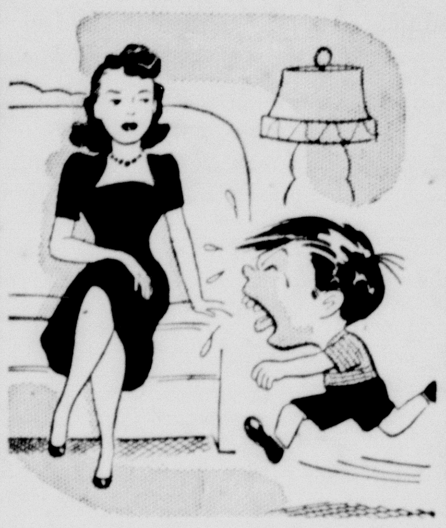
"Clock," said he, "shay 'tick-tock.' Cow shay 'moo-moo.' Pushy cat shay 'meow-meow.' And big bad bear go 'wuff-wuff-wuff.' And I'm a big bad bear."

'After All . . .'

As the doctor was administering an anesthetic to the young lady, she asked, "How soon will I know anything after coming out of this?"

"Well," replied the doctor, "that's expecting a good deal from an anesthetic."

BOBBY'S ERROR



Little Bobby ran to his mother, sobbing as though his heart would break.

"Why, what's the matter, Bobby?" asked his mother.

"Oh, Daddy was hanging a picture and he dropped it on his toes," answered Bobby between sobs.

"Why, that's nothing to cry about, you should laugh at that," said his mother.

"I did," Bobby replied.

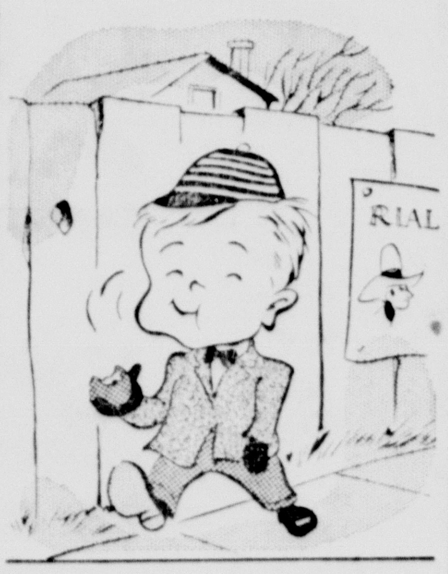
FORESIGHTED



Willie was invited to a party, where, of course, refreshments were bountifully served.

"Won't you have something more Willie?" the hostess said.

"No, thank you," replied Willie with an expression of great satisfaction. "I'm full."

"Well, then," smiled the hostess, "put some fruit and cakes in your pockets to eat on the way home."

"No, thank you," came the rather startling response of Willie, "they're full, too."

Banquet

A boring affair where one, dressed up in his most uncomfortable clothes, eats a lot of indigestible junk he doesn't like, and then has to listen to a speaker talking about something he doesn't know about to a bunch of guys who don't give a hoot about the subject anyway.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE 18th DISTRICT OF TEXAS FROM YOUR CONGRESSMAN

Walter Rogers

Canadian River Dam

The need of an ample water supply in the Panhandle of Texas has been established beyond any reasonable doubt. Any argument to the contrary would have little force in view of the drouth from which we have suffered. This need has long been recognized by those who are familiar with all of the facts. It is good that some questioned the feasibility of such a project and required all necessary facts in justification of it. This procedure eliminates the possibility of a "pork barrel project."

Certainly the Panhandle of Texas is not interested in a "pork barrel project," and I do not believe the people of West Texas would even think of tolerating such. Although the progress has appeared slow on this project, it has been substantial.

The bill as originally passed was an authorization for the construction of the project when funds were available. At the passage of this authorization commitments were made to the effect that appropriations would not be sought until the emergency was over. These commitments were made to senators who were objecting to the passage of the legislation and whose objections would have killed the measure and required the introduction of a new bill and the loss of all progress that had been made up to that date.

Efforts are now being made to satisfy these senators that the project is necessary and seeking release from these commitments. All necessary legislation in addition to the original authorization has been passed save and except the appropriation for the actual construction of the dam. As most of you know, preliminary survey work has been going on this summer and much detail work has been accomplished. Our efforts here will continue and we hope to obtain some definite action in the next Congress.

The Cattle Feed Situation

The tragic disaster that has hit the cattle people is going to do great damage to our section.

The Department of Agriculture advises me that there is no grain available for feed purposes for the reason that there is no oats, barley or sorghum stored in Texas by the Government. This certainly came as a surprise to me in view of the tremendous amount of feed raised in Texas.

The Department advises that the facilities for storage are being used for wheat, which is of course too high for the farmer, rancher or feeders to use. The nearest available grain is corn stored in Kansas, which must be sold at 105 per cent of the support price, plus a carrying charge. This means that the price would be several cents more than the same corn could be purchased on the open market.

There is only one source of relief for the cattle people insofar as the Federal Government is concerned, and that is Public Law No. 875, having to do with the President's Emergency Fund. In order for these funds to be used a request must be made of the President by the Governor of the state desiring such relief. If the request of the Governor is honored by the President and the particular area designated as a "disaster area," the funds from this source are earmarked for use in relief of such situation.

Taxes

It is encouraging to note that many seeking public office or re-election are speaking favorably of the possibility of some tax relief. There was much ado in the last Congress about the various cuts in appropriations.

The President now acknowledges that by reason of this economy wave, progress has been made toward a balanced budget. It is my considered opinion that a continuation of this economy wave, plus the closing of tax loopholes will result in a surplus in the 1953-54 fiscal year, and there is still a possibility that the 1952-53 fiscal year will not result in a deficit. If such is the case, we can of course get tax relief sooner than expected.

I am glad to see the trend downward in government spending and hope that the speed of this trend will increase in the next Congress. The cuts made by the last Congress have proven that there are many services that the people can do without and not be missed. There are some services that can be abolished without undue interference to the public. If these can bring about early tax relief, certainly they should be abolished.

The Meeting in Moscow

There has been much conjecture about the meeting between the Chinese Red high officials and the Kremlin. One observation is that the tremendous build up of strength by the United States in Japan has convinced the Reds that further conduct of the war in Korea would be futile.

Some feel that the meeting has brought to a head the suspected differences between the Red Chinese and the Russians as to the Russians' failure to carry out previous arms commitments. If such is the case, it could explain the Stalin called meeting of the party—the first since 1939—to set up a five-year plan to increase production.

Whether Texas farmers and ranchers are going to get any drouth aid from the federal government is a matter of speculation.

Governor Shivers has asked President Truman to declare Texas a drouth area.

The federal program available to farmers and ranchers is one which makes possible the purchase of cheap hay.

B. F. Vance, head of the Production and Marketing Administration in Texas, said hay was being bought in the North for $25, shipped to Southern disaster states at a freight charge of $17, and sold for $35.

That represents a $7 saving to the purchaser, the federal government absorbing the loss.

There are no aspects of the program other than hay. In other words, the farmer who lost his cotton crop because of the heat can get no relief under the drouth relief plan.

The reason for doubt as to the probability of Texas getting any cheap hay under the program goes back to federal red tape.

As Governor Shivers pointed out at a press conference where he announced that he had asked that Texas be designated a drouth disaster area, Alabama and Arkansas requested help some time ago and so far have received nothing.

These two states, at last report, were still wrangling with the legal minds of the United States Department of Agriculture about "proper wording" of their application.

The Texas governor confessed that he did not know whether his own telegram to President Truman was properly worded.

Governor Shivers thought he smelled politics in the drouth disaster business, and although he did not elaborate on that statement, it was interpreted to mean that the administration might be holding out a little cheap hay in the hope that the Democrats would pick up a few more Texas votes in November.

The governor did comment thus: "I still feel that it is highly involved in a political move, and I certainly hope that neither Undersecretary McCormick or his department, or even the President of the United States, will play politics with the actual need many of these people have."

Some of the people who expressed themselves on whether Texas should ask for drouth disaster relief said they felt Governor Shivers would not do it because of his well-known personal prejudice against President Truman.

That prejudice, Shivers asserted, should not and did not prevent him from making the request for federal aid.

"I shouldn't stand as one man and say the needy farmers can't try to get that help," the governor told reporters. "I am concerned about the little man in the game, and I hope they get some benefit out of it."

There were big, black headlines in the newspapers about the drouth disaster business.

There were in some quarters a let-down feeling when people realized that all the federal benefits available were some tons of $35 hay — and that purchase of the hay had to await the action of U.S.D.A. lawyers whose main concern seemed to be "proper wording."

Harrells Contine Hunt in Africa

Mrs. Harrell Writes Story Hunting Trip Taken in Africa

August 3, Sunday: We took a lunch and drove to the river hunting elephant.

This is hot, dry country dotted with thorn bush, rocks and very little grass. There were some natives herding their cattle and goats in various places, but we wondered what they ate, as the grass was dried up.

One native was leading a camel as a pack animal. We stopped him and asked where the elephants are to be found. He will meet us at 7 o'clock in the morning at the same place where we stopped him today and show us where some big elephants are staying. If he gets there first, he will draw a line across the road in the dust with his spear. We should get one tomorrow.

Boys Stalk Elephants

We saw three small elephants today and it was quite a thrill watching the boys stalking them. We sighted one on the bank of the river after having seen fresh spoor (tracks). I stayed with the safari truck and watched with glasses. One boy always stays with the truck to drive it to pick up the game. Anyway I'm always glad to have company.

The elephant stood there flapping his enormous ears until the boys were within 25 feet. Then he must have heard something as he turned and leisurely ambled across the shallow river into the bush on the other side and stayed right there!

The boys said there were two of them, both small. On one the tusks weighed less than 25 pounds and the other one had only one tusk.

August 4, Monday: We have had breakfast by 6 the last two mornings and have been out on the hunt before the animals go into the bush.

Saw Many Elephants

We saw at least 25 elephants and I'm sure there were more there that we could not see. It's strange how easily a large rhino and an elephant can hide just by standing against a small bush. The men had a close look at a dozen elephants in their effort to find one with sizeable tusks. These were all cows and calves or had tusks the size of toothpicks, according to the guide. Only one had a fair sized tusk, the other one was broken off however.

I thought you must be very careful not to frighten them; but all six of the men walked right along to within 200 feet of the elephants, looked them over and decided they were too small.

The elephants never did see the men. There were four bull elephants standing under a large tree; one resting his trunk in the crotch of the tree; another one was flapping his huge ears as an eagle taking off in flight; the others just resting.

We counted 14 elephants standing among the flat top thorn bush which looked as if it could scarcely conceal a gazelle yet the elephants were quite difficult to see.

Killed a Chetah

We were driving through thorn bush and came out onto a plain of tall grass with only an occasional tree or bush when we saw two chetahs lying in the shade of a bush. If they had been less curious, we wouldn't have seen them. We dropped Newton and Ed off in some bushes nearby. They were armed with a 16mm movie camera and a 270 Remington. We drove around and the chetah kept watching us. The closer we came the lower they crouched in the grass. We didn't know just what to do then, so we drove closer. Just as Newton shot, one jumped and was gone in a flash but the other lay kicking right where he was. Newton shot at the fleeing one but didn't make connections. The one killed weighed over a hundred pounds. His spots are dotted around one to a place like polka dots, whereas a leopard has four to a place like a cat-track.

August 5, Tuesday: In a large acacia tree on our present camp site is a wild bee nest with honey. You can see where some native has burned the bees out and chopped around in the crotch of the tree trying to get at the honey, but it is a way down in the trunk out of reach. You can hear different low and high tones of the bees buzzing around in the trunk as they are warming up for the day. A string of small ants have found the honey and our guide says they will eventually run the bees away.

There are hundreds of guinea fowl and spur fowl or grouse near this camp. There are perhaps a hundred in one flock of guineas. - We are moving camp this morning.

August 6: The new camp is on a narrow little stream just covered with vines, bush and trees, forming a narrow ribbon of very lovely green in a dry, rocky, rolling plains and bush country — more thorn bush than plains.

Meet Many Natives

We see many natives from the road, with their herds of goats. Some are just traveling. There were three groups along the road this morning who had camped for the night. They had their usual spears and gourds (in which they carry milk). It wasn't much trouble for them to camp or move next morning. They wear skins or a blanket or a cloth of some kind. Around their heads some wear turbans which they used as a blanket at night. They always cover up a little more when they see us. It's hot and they wear various kinds of clothing from nothing to European dress, according to the tribe, nearness to town and what they can afford to buy.

We are over a hundred miles east from our last camp and we are still in the native preserve. They have drilled a few wells here which the natives can use as a community watering place, but most of the country is unused for lack of water. Much of the land is covered in volcanic rocks and ash which is rich soil and produces abundantly where there is water. The land is eroded and well padded down in certain areas and I don't understand why they haven't used this hay or tall grass along this little creek.

We have observed four different tribes. The Masai, who bleed their cattle and live on milk and blood, seem happier and less interested in the rest of the world; but who appear to be a vanishing race. They live in the best part of the country too on the grassy plains where game is most abundant but they eat none of it.

Describes Natives

The Kikuyos, the only tribe that does much farming, appear to be better educated and cleaner than some of the others. The boys with our safari are Kikuyos and they have many accomplishments. Our cook is as good as any I ever came across. They wash, iron and keep a clean, well ordered camp.

Around Nairobi the hills and roads are full of these black people, walking, riding bicycles, riding dirty busses. At various little towns the people collected twice a week on market days carrying in their little bits of produce. They live chiefly in little round, mud huts with thatched roofs. Each man has his Boma (to protect his cattle, sheep or goats at night) or brush corral surrounding his houses. They live with their livestock, herding them by day. He lives in one house and each wife in a separate house. Also there is a tiny house or two for his corn, etc. Most of them have about five houses of various sizes in the enclosure or Boma. He has as many wives as he can afford. They wear anything they can buy, find or accumulate. Every store or shelter with goods for sale is run by East Indian traders. Blankets, tin cooking pots and beads are the only things for sale in some places while others add tinned or canned food and spears.

The Simali tribe and Turkanas are nomads and travel around with their flocks wherever they find grass. They eat their goats and drink their milk. They age quickly. I saw a wrinkled, grey-haired, old man, who looked to be 80 or over. Our guide thought he was probably 40.

Ed Killed Water Buck

(Still August 6) Ed shot a water buck (a large deer) about the size and color of a burro, which weighed about 300 pounds. It ran about 300 yards after having been shot in the heart with a 270. We thought he had run away.

The boys can hardly get by the guineas without trying a few shots. Guineas are hard to kill. It takes No. 4 or 5 shot and then you need to be close to them to have much luck. They fly before you get near enough to shoot, and light running. They have delicious white meat.

There are no signs of elephants here.

Mr. Lunan hired a native boy who says he will find an elephant. He is a well built, well dressed young man for a native.

Lunan sent him to look while we were having lunch and a nap which we seldom take.

The boy came back in a few hours with news that a lion had made a kill and he would show us where to find the eland which had been killed.

We took off down a trail through brush which you would think was impossible for a motor car. The ground was over grown with grass and bush filled with rocks in places and we crossed a narrow stream pushing our way right through the bush. It is very exciting; expecting to get a lion maybe two or three. The men have left the truck to hike out through the bush. They may come back empty handed but there is a good chance for a lion, if he comes back for more meat.

Visit From Native

While they were gone, we had one lone visitor and three others. I was glad I had a boy with me as they looked primitive wearing skins and carrying spears. They greeted me and said something in Swahili. Our boy, Mongai, enjoyed meeting them immensely. They had quite a visit, chattering and examining the visitors home tamed boys. Mongai sampled their wild honey and smelled their liquor. The old man had about five ears of dried corn on his back. They all had their bags, looking for honey to make booze.

The honey was in a two gallon leather bag and looked brown. I took a bit from Mongai's hand as he had a big hand full. It was very sweet and chewy with honey comb.

I smelled of the liquor they had made from the honey and it smelled fermented. It was in a gourd with wet matted grass for a stopper.

Two of these travelers wore shirts of a sort they buy from Indian traders. The old man wore a skin for pants and a blanket thrown over one shoulder. They make sandals from leather or old tires. (You don't dare leave a car alone or the tires will be cut off for soles).

There are many rocky burns and thorns. Every thing has a sting.

Self Barber Shops

These people keep their kinky hair cut very short with an old razor blade or a piece of broken bottle. Their ears have holes as big as a dollar and swing down from the weight of from 6 to 10 small brass rings. They wear beads around their necks and silver bracelets. Each carries a spear and stick (this is as necessary to them as a hat is to us). The stick is used to drive their livestock and the spear to ward off enemies and guard the livestock from wild animals.

The Turkanas have straight black hair and are very slender. They wear a turban and bright shirts and skirts that look like a bright table cloth wrapped around them.

When I look at the tracks in the path, all I see is barefoot tracks, but the natives wear soles if they can find anything from which to make them.

Another native came by carrying a green palm rug 5x9 that he would sell for six shillings. He was using his stick to carry the rug which he had made down by the river. It was tied with a green strip and the stick thrust through that. He was very nice to let us see it. We tied it back for him and he went his way. Our boys say these fellows go visiting to drink booze. The friend always offers them some and they get happy.

The hunters came back to report that the lion had eaten a good bait and left, probably not to return until after dark.

Newton and Ed said the lion had killed the eland and dragged him back into thick bush. When they went into the bush trailing the kill, they were within six feet of the fresh meat before they saw it. They were lucky that the lion wasn't there. Of course he could have been nearby watching them and probably was. It was quite a thrill being so near to a feeding lion in such wild surroundings.

Continue Elephant Hunt

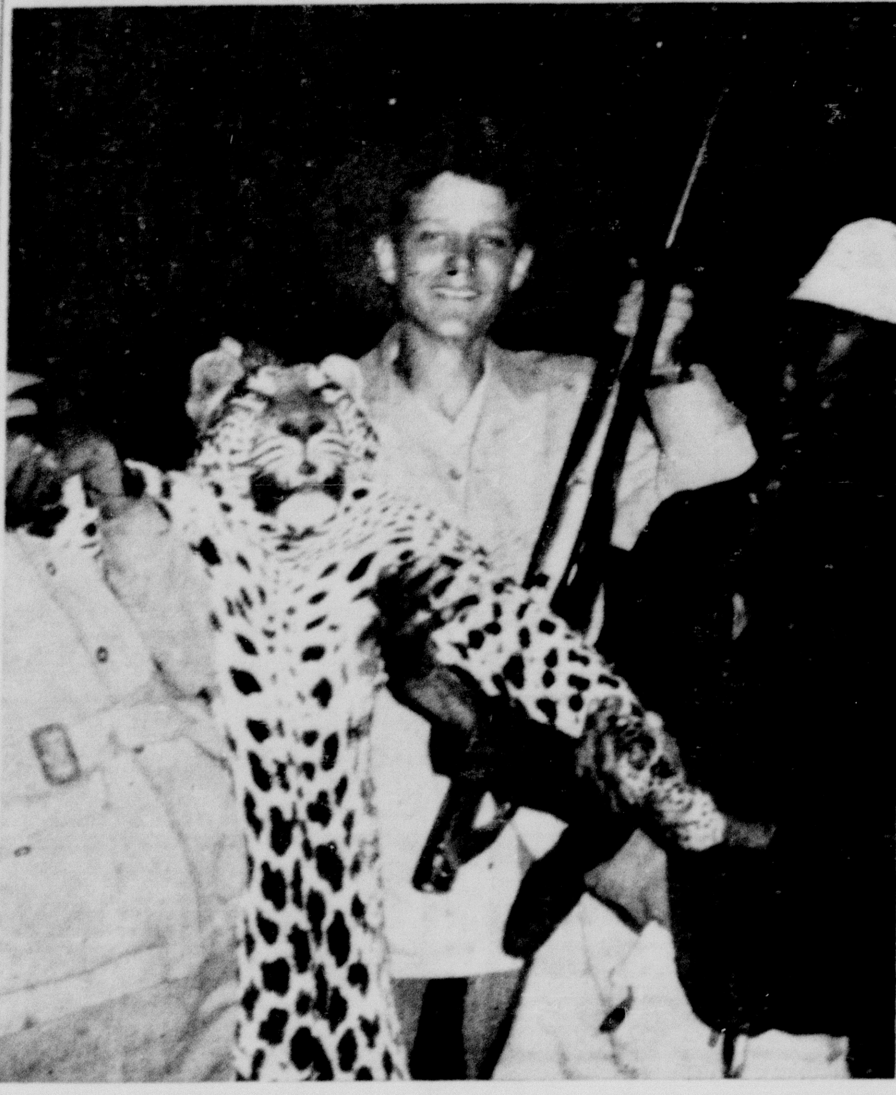
They will continue the hunt for elephant and take up with the lion and leopard later. In the meantime they are placing leopard bait. This looks like the best place yet for leopards and lions. Within ten minutes walking distance of the lion kill the men visited a native hut. The leopards had killed all of his dogs. I heard both a leopard and a lion last night. The moon was bright as day and I stayed awake most of the night hoping to see a leopard as I had heard the guide say one came to his tent on two occasions.

My two boys are shooting guineas and I can hear them bombing away. They got off the safari truck a short way from camp. I came in to have tea and catch up on my notes.

The men brought in 15 guineas. Ed said they worked out a strategy to fool them. They divided up and some of the boys flushed them while the others shot as the guineas came over. Now I can hear the guineas calling their families back together; what's left of them.

There were hundreds of them left though. Our cook serves these guineas in many appetizing ways.

Safari Showpiece



Ed Harrell holds the leopard that won for him the title "Great Hunter." Natives with him participated later in the leopard dance given to honor Ed over his kill. The Harrells are now in the Far East on the last part of their Around the World flight.

Newton Harrell In Letter About Safari

Out in the Bush
July 30

Dear Mother,

We are going by Nairobi in a day or so and will have a chance to send out mail. We are going about 400 miles northeast for a week.

This is a most interesting and pleasant place. We need a fire in the morning and sleep under three blankets. The days are just warm enough. No people live in this area as the tetse fly is here and no domesticated animals can live.

I imagine it looks somewhat like home when Dad arrived. Of course there is some bush or trees in strips and on the hills, but there are large grass flats several miles across with not a weed or bush and grass up to your waist. You can see herds of antelope in all directions. We have seen a dozen varieties. There are also a great number of other animals — lions, giraffe, leopard, rhino, monkeys, buffalo, and a lot you see once in a while.

Ed got a beautiful leopard. We select a good head when we need camp meat. Show these pictures to Doc and tell him to study up on African heads.

We have all been as fine as could be. Our things were a few days late getting in, but they sent them out when they came. We borrowed some guns and I found a little film, so we lost little time. They protect lion, cheetah and leopard in most of this area as they say there are too many other animals and this keeps them thinned out.

We have 12 native boys that wait on us hand and foot. When you drop a piece of clothing, someone picks it up and washes it. They serve meals in courses and serve tea at all stops.

We get a few guinea nearly every day. They are exactly like our tame ones. There are other birds too. We see ostrich every little bit. It is interesting to drive around the bush in the evening and see the different things out grazing.

Love,
Newton

I want to sincerely thank each and every voter who came to the polls, as this is the Democratic way we have of choosing our officials, and the more who vote the nearer we have representation from all of us.

I also want to especially thank the friends, old and new, who worked so very hard in behalf of my candidacy. It was their untiring work that made it possible for me to win the election last Saturday.

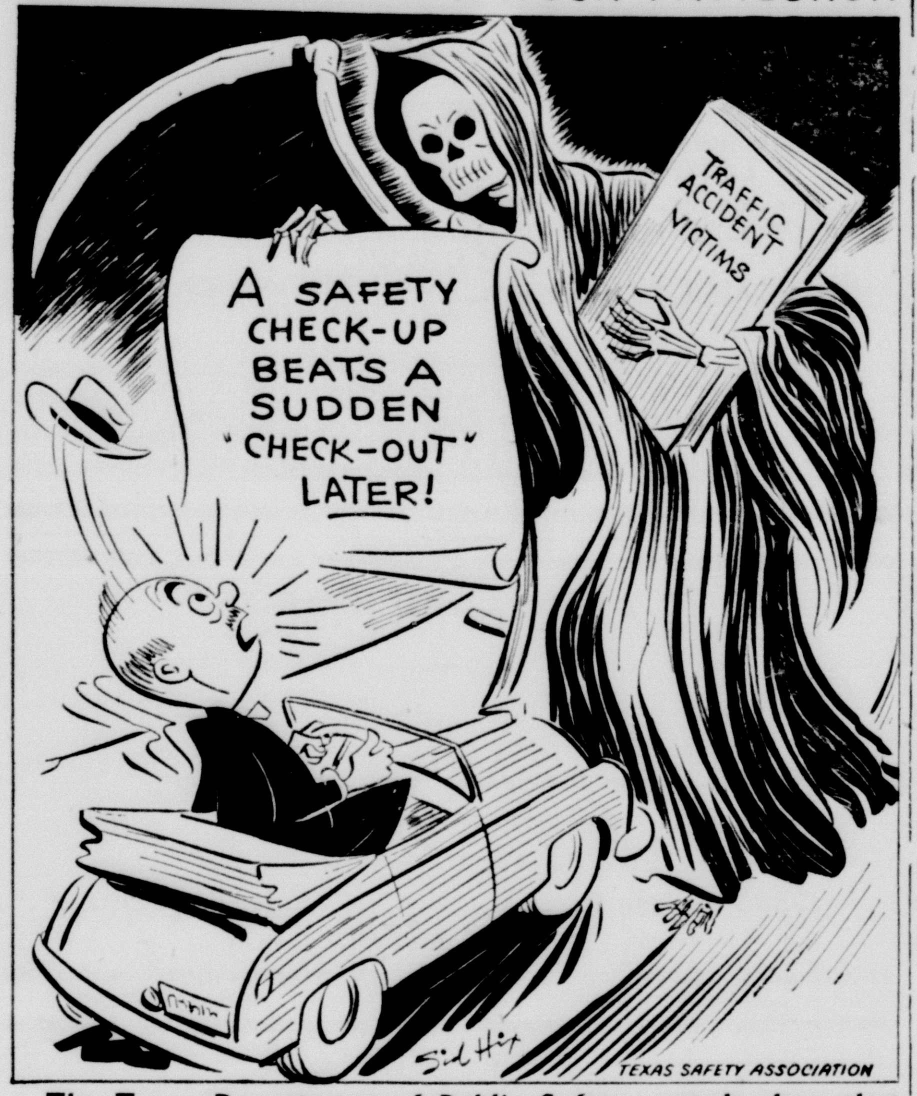
SAFETY INSPECTION IS YOUR PROTECTION



The Texas Department of Public Safety records show that 2,546 citizens were killed on Texas highways in 1951. About 13% or 300 of these deaths involved defective cars and trucks. The Texas Motor Vehicle Inspection Law is aimed at reducing this 13% by getting all motor vehicles in safe operating condition. Motor Vehicle Inspection will tell the automobile owner whether or not his car is in safe operating condition. The Texas Safety Association urges you to have your car inspected now—before the September 6th deadline.

T-Anchor Homes Is Federal Project

Canyon has a Federal Housing project known as the T-Anchor Homes. This project was built by the Public Housing Administration pursuant to the Public Housing Act of 1949. It was completed for occupancy in August, 1951. It consists of eight buildings with two single-family units in each building. There are ten two-bedroom apartments, three one-bedroom units and three with three bedrooms each. The project is located in Block 49 of the Conner Addition between 7th and 8th Avenues.

Any family unit composed of citizens of the United States who have lived in Canyon at least six months and whose income is not above the maximums established for the project is eligible to rent an apartment. Annual income limits as established by the local authority are as follows:

Two persons, $2,000.
Three persons, $2,350.
Four persons, $2,450.
Five persons, $2,550.

More than five persons, $2,550 plus $100 for each minor in excess of three. A family consisting of a man, wife, and five children would be allowed a maximum income for admission of $2,750.

The amount of rent paid is dependent upon the income. Roughly it amounts to 20% of the income, less adjustment for utilities and family size. A family of four with an annual income of $2,400 would pay $35 per month. Rent is the same regardless of the size of apartment rented. Veterans have no preference as to occupancy of the apartments, but disabled veterans are not disallowed occupancy because of income received as a pension for disability. The disabled veteran pays rent on the total income he receives, but the pension is not counted in determining his eligibility to live in the project.

Office of the project is on the first floor of the old First National Bank Building, at 500 15th St. E. T. Cummings is the executive director.

At present the project is fully occupied and there is a rather long waiting list. However, there is some difficulty experienced in filling the three-bedroom apartments, since most of the applicants are college students.

Something To Be Proud of for the City and County

As an officer who has spent a long time in law enforcement, I am proud to state, and the records will back me up, that Canyon and Randall county are the cleanest town and county in the State of Texas.

The election is now over. I am calling upon the people of Canyon and Randall county to lay aside all differences that may have come up over the election, and one and all get behind Mr. L. S. Johnston. He is the man who will be your Sheriff on January 1, 1953. Help him keep Canyon and Randall County clean. No sheriff can do this without the help of the people of his county.

Since April 1, 1952, there have been committed to the Randall County jail 127 persons. Now here is something I am proud of: Not one of these 127 persons live in Canyon or Randall County.

Get behind your incoming sheriff and help him keep Canyon and Randall County in this splendid shape.

J. L. POUNDS,
Deputy Sheriff of Randall County,
Texas

LIPSTICK LOGIC

LOUISE ALLEN

Anyone can take a picture. Just get a camera — with these new high speed films and other gadgets, they're practically foolproof; then aim and click.

For years we've watched camera-happy guys blind a speaker, distract attention from a bride or get between the stands and the football play. Show - stealers, we thought; want to call attention to themselves. They don't really need to climb a telephone pole or creep down an aisle to get a good shot.

We took a few days off last week to master this simple skill. Needed a certain picture and there was no sense paying a commercial photographer.

"Take it at one one-hundredth," a successful amateur advised. "And open up the liaphragm for an inside shot."

Feeling professional, we gathered up camera, bulbs and flash attachments, and sallied forth. After trying several angles, we found the right one from atop a dining room chair. We snapped, but the bulb failed to flash. Off the perch to take inventory, we fixed the gimmick and tried again. A few trips on-and-off-the-chair later we had several nice shots; could hardly wait to get them developed and choose the best one.

"Nothing on the film," the photographer explained. "With this camera you'd have to take flashes at one-twenty-fifth. Come back in an hour and I'll work out an exact chart."

Armed with new knowledge about distances and diaphragms, we started out to retake the picture. This time a flock of gremlins messed up the results. Many dollars and perspiring days later, we still don't have that simple photograph. We aren't discouraged, but we do have a new idol. It's that great intellectual giant, that master of all skills, the Shutterbug!

Dwight Eisenhower, for the Republicans, finds that he is being pushed into a position as a straight-out conservative candidate, not as one who tries to win by capturing a big block of New Deal votes. Labor leaders are lining up even more solidly on the Democratic side this year than they did in 1948.

General Eisenhower continues to shy away from the strategy of a slam-bang type of campaign that would level fire at all of the works of the Democratic opposition. Eisenhower is holding out for a quieter type of sales job that would offer the public his experience in dealing with big problems and in working with groups that have conflicting interests.

Both Republicans and Democrats, in the top command, are inclined to soft-pedal the Korean war as a campaign issue.

NO PLACE FOR HIM

The no-account husband joined some of the other loafers sitting on the curb of the courthouse square. He announced that he was leaving town. He said he just couldn't live in it any longer.

"What's the matter?" asked one.

"Oh, the town's all right," he replied, "but it just ain't no place where a woman can find work!"

BYSTANDER'S VERSION

First soldier, regaling a group of girls with an exaggerated account of his part in capturing a small town: "Then an explosion tore up the main street."

Girls in unison: "Goodness! And what did you do?"

Second soldier, standing by: "He tore up a side street."

GOOD QUESTION

Judge, after charging jury: "Is there any question you would like to ask before considering the evidence?"

Juror: "A couple of us would like to know if the defendant boiled the malt one or two hours and how did he keep the yeast out?"

SLIPPED

Judge — So you were convicted of burglary twice, robbery with violence three times and manslaughter once?

Prisoner — That's right, sir. After that I seemed to drift into a life of crime.

COTTON

The cotton crop in the Southern States, which have suffered severely from drought, is expected to be short about a million bales, compared with last year, according to the Agriculture Department. Other cotton-producing areas, however, will grow 575,000 bales more this year than in 1951 and the net national loss will be only about 409,000 bales, a shrinkage of three per cent compared with last year's crop.

DEATH RATE

The annual death rate in the United States is only half what it was fifty years ago, according to a Brookings Institution report. The decrease is attributed to improved medical technique and knowledge.

The outline for a three-power Pacific security pact to protect the area from Communist aggression has been completed by the Foreign Ministers of the United States, Australia and New Zealand.

Omar N. Bradley, General of the Army, chairman Joint Chiefs of Staff: "In seeking world peace, this nation has no other choice than to build and maintain military power commensurate with our world responsibilities."

Paul H. Douglas, U. S. Senator from Illinois: "If World War II comes, the use of atomic weapons and perhaps of bacteriological warfare will result in enormous destruction of life."

UNCLE SAM'S SHARE

The U. S. Treasury is getting 59 per cent of what a manufacturer earns, according to a survey of the National City Bank of New York, but it isn't getting as much money as a year ago, because other costs of doing business are rising. The 460 firms surveyed are putting aside $2,849,000,000 for taxes out of first-half gross earnings of $3,861,000,000.

AUTO THEFTS

Auto thefts jumped into a $95,000,000 racket in this country last year, according to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, who announced plans for a series of regional conferences to deal with the problem. Car thefts in large cities rose 21.2 per cent and in rural areas 15.1 per cent during 1951. Recoveries ranged above 99 per cent.

American Laugh Hurt Bowler More Than Sticks or Stones

One hundred years ago a revolution occurred—and the world of hats has never been quite the same since.

The top hat—whose admirers claimed it was "like Shakespeare, to be not for an age, but for all time"—was knocked off its reigning perch by an innocuous but saucy little item called "the bowler." In the autumn of 1950 the bowler was honored in Great Britain by one of the first centenary celebrations ever held for a hat.

Unlike its high-hat predecessor, the bowler—or derby, as it is known in America—was both democratic and efficient. It was adopted by men in all walks of life and prized for its neat resistance to high winds, falling plaster and snowballs hurled by small boys.

Despite its utilitarian features, however, the low-crowned, hard-shelled bowler had its day in the courts of high style. Britain's Prince Albert adopted it within a year after William Coke—stalwart advocate of common sense headdress for the steeplechase—designed it as a kind of crash-helmet protection in equestrian accidents.

By the '80's men of fashion on two continents were not fully dressed without a bowler. It was the choice of every blade of the "Gay Nineties." In the 1920's it was the trademark of New York's fun-loving mayor Jimmy Walker. The brown derby affected by Governor Al Smith became something of a political symbol. A Hollywood restaurant was built in its image and named for it.

Today the bowler is still a popular part of the Britisher's wardrobe. In London it stamps the bank clerks, young men-about-town and, especially, gas-meter readers. In the United States, however, the derby is seen less and less frequently. It seems to have been relegated largely to the world of the theater—as part of variety acts, a thing of humor.

Test Growing of Asiatic Chestnut Trees in Virginia

Experiments in growing forest-type Asiatic chestnut trees as possible replacements for America's blight-killed trees were evaluated recently by 47 foresters, scientists and information specialists who visited the George Washington national forest in Virginia.

Studies made at the forest indicated that certain Asiatic chestnuts, particularly Chinese chestnut, show great promise of becoming forest trees when grown under forest conditions. The Japanese trees and the Henry chinkapin appeared to be more susceptible to blight than the Chinese and certain hybrids. It was found that depth of the top soil had an important effect on tree form and on rate of growth of the Asiatics being tested.

The area visited, one of 21 plots established in eight states in 1936, 1938 and 1939, is a two-acre, 15-year-old planting located on Long Mountain in Virginia's Amherst county. Twenty-five kinds of Asiatic chestnuts and Asiatic hybrids are under test in the plots, which range in size from one to 32 acres. The planting sites were originally covered with the better hardwoods. They were clear-cut, planted and fenced against deer and livestock.

Modern Business Machines

Progress in the development of modern business machines has made possible the tremendous volume of correspondence, bookkeeping, filing and other details of office processing every day. Wm. S. Burroughs with his adding machine made an accountant out of the old-timer with a high stool and quill pen. Sholes with his typewriter turned the longhand girl into a shorthand girl, and made jobs for millions of her kind. Edison created the dictating machine, Joseph S. Duncan invented the addressograph. These are all American inventions. By speeding computations and recordings those machines have added growth, and still more jobs, to industries that use them.

Get Correct Shoes

Not many of us realize that our footprints would make just as good a means of crime-detection as our fingerprints. There are no two pairs of feet exactly alike. Yet how many of us know enough about the shapes of our feet to be able to buy the kind of shoes that will give us a maximum of comfort without getting into the category of shoes with an "old lady" look? Foot specialists divide feet into five main types: The wide, short-toed foot, low instep foot, long, narrow foot, short plump foot, wide, short-toed foot. Get the right shoe for the right foot.

Can Surplus Liver

Usually during hog-killing time, surplus liver, ribs, and backbones are given away. Why not store these items in the refrigrator until the rush is over and then can them? To save space in jars, precook backbones until tender, then remove meat and can it as hash. Ribs are nicer if they are broiled in the oven and packed into jars and covered with brown gravy before canning. Precook sliced liver in water until it loses its color. Pack in jars with a small piece of lean pork and cover with water or stock.

ON CONDITION

Voltaire once was euchered into penning a few words after the demise of an associate he loathed and detested. After several false starts, he contrived the following: "I am informed that Monsieur So-and-So has breathed his last. He was a sturdy patriot, a gifted writer, a loyal friend and an affectionate father—provided, of course, he actually is dead."

You Know the Type

"Does your husband still suffer from migraine headaches?" a woman was asked.

"Yes," she replied, with a sigh, "but not nearly as much as the rest of us do."

Joke's On You!

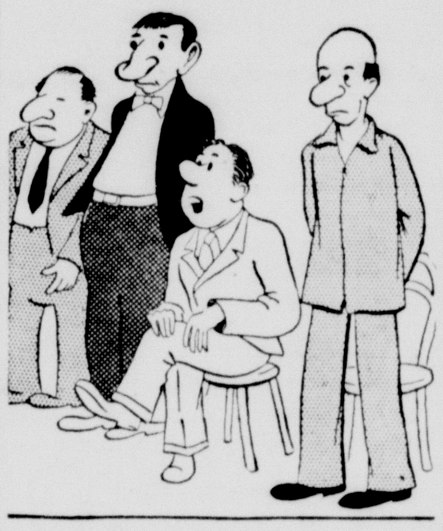
Visitor (to farmer)—"I don't see how you scratch a living out of this poor farm."

Farmer—"I ain't as bad off as you think. I don't own this farm."

Usually

Dean Briggs, when asked if Charles Eliot, then president of Harvard, had a sense of humor, was hard put to it. "He has," Briggs replied after a short pause, then added quietly, "but it's unreliable."

NO EXCEPTION



"Let all you husbands who have troubles on your minds stand up!" shouted the preacher at the revival.

Every man in the church rose to his feet except one.

"Ah!" exclaimed the preacher, "you are one in a million."

"It ain't that. I can't get up; I'm paralyzed!"

Knows His Stuff

"Farm products," complained the customer, "cost a good deal more than they used to."

"Sure, they do!" agreed Farmer Jones. "When a farmer has to know the botanical name of what he is raising and the zoological name of the insect that eats it, and the chemical name of what kills it, somebody's got to pay."

Human Nature At Work

An elevator operator grew weary of constantly being asked the time of day, so he hung a clock in his cage. Now everybody asks him: "Is that clock right?"

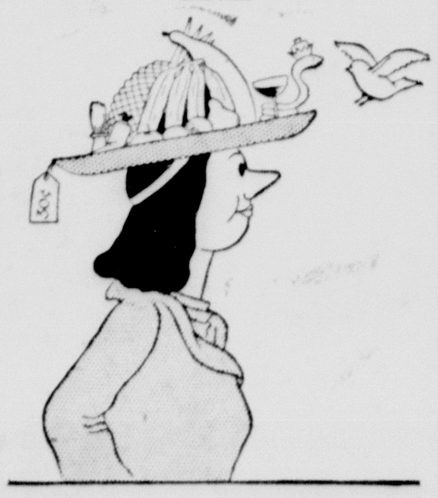
Relax!

City boy: What do you call these beautiful leaves I've just picked?

Country girl: Why—that's poison ivy!

City boy: Well, don't get excited --I'm not going to eat them.

SAD MISTAKE



"What's the matter with you wife? She looks all broken up."

"She got a terrible shock."

"How was it?"

"She was assisting at a rummage sale at the church and she took off her new $2 hat and somebody sold it for 30 cents."

SURE ENOUGH

It was a stormy day in winter, and cars and pedestrians could be seen sliding in every direction. An extremely heavy lady stood hesitating at the curb for some minutes. Finally a gentleman, noticing her apparent distress, asked if he might assist her. "Oh, indeed, sir, could you see me across the street?" Most certainly, madam," he replied, "as a matter of fact I believe I could have seen you three blocks away."

Jascha Heifetz began playing the violin when he was three.

Health Officer Is Opposed to Federal Funds Health Work

State Health Officer Geo. W. Cox has called for "less concern about so-called federal domination of the state's business and "more positive action" to prevent it.

In a written statement to the Dallas Times-Herald, the veteran of 18 years of fighting the battle for public health said his position on the propriety of receiving federal money was clear:

"I want my state to maintain its prestige, dignity, authority, and ownership of the state public health program," he said.

A previous statement to the effect that he didn't see anything wrong with accepting federal funds "except that we don't get enough of it" had been widely circulated by the Associated Press. The Dallas Times-Herald editorialized on that view.

"Federal domination must inevitably develop as long as the state's public health money continues to supplement the federal public health money. The reverse should exist," he wrote, "with federal money supplementing that provided by the state."

"It is no less than like a stock company or corporation—the chap who owns the majority of stock will no doubt want to direct the operation. My position is that I want my state to maintain its prestige, dignity, authority, and ownership of the state public health program."

Dr. Cox has already made known his intention to wage a vigorous campaign for a 50 cents per capita legislative appropriation when the legislature convenes. The department is now operating on about 20 cents per capita, far beneath the national average of 62 cents per capita.

He said that is the reason he has been obliged to accept federal funds to keep the state's public health standards up to par. But it is a situation which can be corrected, he believes.

"If the legislature agrees to appropriate 50 cents per capita to operate on, then we'll be in a better position to use federal funds for supplementing the state's program.

MILLIONTH DRAFTEE

Arthur Weinfold, a typical 23-for induction on July 31 as the year-older, of Detroit, reported 1,000,000th draftee since the beginning of the Korean War.

Robert Moses, New York City official: "If you have a program and it's a good program, and you know what you're doing, you can make progress."

LOOKING FOR "SNAPS"

Most of our troubles can be traced to the sad truth that we haven't enough soft snaps to go round.
